

RECKLESS SHOOTING.

Six Shots Fired in the Saratoga Saloon Without Effect.

NARROW ESCAPE OF A LADY.

Christmas in Cloverport would have been recorded in the good book with more had it not been for too much barroom Christmas night. At the hour of 10 o'clock numerous people from the saloon were heard in the direction of the Saratoga saloon. After an investigation it was ascertained that Ratus Hall, bartender, had six times at El Walker (redhead), terminally none of the discharges taking effect.

The facts, as near as can be gathered by a News reporter are of this nature: There were three or four negro men drinking at the bar, and through a mistake bartender Alvin Wilkerson overlooked the most important side issue that goes with every drink, and that is water. It was Walker who failed to get the water, and he kept asking for it. Ratus Hall was not near the bar during the conversation between Wilkerson and the colored men. About the time their conversation began to reach its warmest Hall entered the main bar, and after a few remarks ordering them from the building he began to shoot. One of the discharges went through a second-story window pane of the saloon, and it was reported to him as the firing of torpedoes. Mr. Hall was left alone and cannot be located. Usually, at the hour of the shooting, there are a good many pedestrians on the street, but when this occurred there was not a person on either side of the street. On Tuesday, December 19—that memorable day will never be forgotten from the minds of the public—it was a ladies' victory, wiping out three saloons, their houses exploding on the next day. Hall's time expired March 21, and of course he had the right to continue, but it is rumored that when the new Board of Councilmen takes its seat the license will be cancelled, in view of the recent occurrence.

Death Near Guston.

Miss Gavra, Ky., Dec. 25.—(Special.)—At half-past 5 o'clock Tuesday morning, Dec. 21, at her home, two miles from Guston, Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson breathed her last. Like an electric shock news came to her family and friends by word of mouth that she was so near death. She had suffered for many years, her last sickness was of two days' duration, and very few knew of her intense suffering until death came to her relief. A useful and unselfish life is ended. She spent her life for others, and unlike many, her charity extended beyond the confines of her own home and family. She was a hand upon as day for those in distress and none appealed to her for help. She was particularly affectionate to her children, and she was heard for her to undertake to gratify them, and bitterly did her little grandchildren mourn her loss.

She was laid to rest in the family burying ground, where her parents are buried. She had left on the family tree, she having survived her sister, Mrs. Fry, more than a year and her brother, William Wimp, about two years. She was in her sixty-ninth year and leaves a husband, ten years her senior, a son and daughter, and a host of friends, who were sincerely sorry for her sudden removal from their midst, for "none knew her but to Mrs. Gavra named her but to none."

A Handsome Funtament.

Miss V. K. Keith erected a handsome monument in the St. Romain's Cemetery at Marshallburg last week in memory of her father, Charles C. Keith. The monument was shipped from Aberdeen, Md.

Miss Keith arrived another one last week at Sandy Hill, in memory of her mother, Mrs. Keith. She was the handmaid of her mother, and she was the handmaid of her mother.

HARDINSBURG

Miss Bowler is at home from Louisville.

Patrick Dillon went to Cloverport last Saturday.

Mrs. Mat Payne was in town shopping last Thursday.

Mr. Graham Ekridge is at home to spend the holidays.

The glad days are here, joyous Christmas days for children.

Jeff Dillon is at home from Evansville, Ind., to spend the holidays.

A nice line of men's all wool pants going at $1.25—Eclipse Grocery.

Herbert Beard returned home last week from Colorado Springs.

Ben Hook came home from Brandenburg last week to spend Christmas.

A fine grade of New Orleans molasses just received at the Eclipse Grocery.

Rev. W. B. Snow has been conducting a very successful meeting at Santee.

Our merchants did a fine business last Saturday in the sale of holiday goods.

Our bird hunters are putting in all of their time before the bird law expires.

James Ekridge came up from Henderson last Saturday and returned Tuesday.

Bud Hook and family came up from the Falls of Rough to spend Christmas here.

If you don't see it down the street, we know you can find it at the Eclipse Grocery.

Old Santa Claus has a heart that is boundless, therefore draw on him for this week.

The death of D. L. Moody removes from us one of the greatest Evangelists of the age.

Some people in this world like that little game, "The Power of Money" mightily well.

Old Santa Claus has come and gone, making the homes and hearts of many children happy.

Prof. Roberts and wife left last Saturday for their home in Meade county to spend Christmas week.

While you are enjoying this glad Christmas time, think of the hundreds of children who have no Santa Claus.

Miss Elsie Clarkson left last Saturday to spend Christmas week with her friends in Meade county.

The Evening Post has a large circulation in this town and vicinity and is sold by Wallace Babcock.

The game law expires on the last day of this month, and it will be unlawful to kill quail after that time.

Postmaster Marcus Kinschelo gave a big Christmas dinner to a number of his friends and relatives last Monday.

The pupils in Miss Irene Board's room at the public school, on last Friday, presented her with a handsome Christmas present.

The telephone boxes for the new wire on the Cloverport and Hardinsburg exchange arrived last week. They will be put up at once.

A violin rental or a male or female quartet, or "McFadden's Row on the Chalk" would be a fine attraction for the City Hall this week.

W. K. Barnes, was in Louisville last Friday, where he obtained a discharge in bankruptcy for Elvin French of Union Star, in the Federal Court.

Said Prof. Roberts, "Our college closed last Friday for a week holiday, and the boys instead of taking in Greek and Latin, can feast while on turkey and plum pudding."

Bill Owen's found the weather a little raw in that race against Gayle for the nomination for Congress in the Ashland district. He only got 3,500 votes. Owen's was a Brown Democrat.

On Christmas eve, when all were in bed.

Right down the chimney he flew! And stretched the stocking low!

He clipped in a present for you. This boy and his little sister went to work on the chimney to clean it out of old Santa Claus and so come down.

They found coal oil and scorching old Santa's hide, and he got in the chimney and galloped away.

We have been informed that early next year the railroad company will build a new depot for Hardinsburg.

The freight and passenger travel from here certainly ought to justify it. No other station on the branch has a depot quite so commodious.

The Christmas tree was seen to be in such a promising condition that a church festival or an exposure would be sure to be a success.

Some of the most interesting things that have been seen in this town, right here in the town, are the things that have been seen in the town.

Miss Darnham was down at Guston last night to see her mother, who was very much ill.

DYNAMITE'S DEADLY WORK

Treacherous Revenge of a Gang of Moonshiners.

LOCATED AND CAPTURED.

HARDINSBURG, Ky., Dec. 26.—(Special.)—Bill Taylor, the clerk moonshiner, who was arrested and taken from this place to Louisville last week, has been ordered by the U. S. marshal to appear in court for the trial of the case.

There has been a hard one for the office to handle. He has been arrested a number of times and served out several terms in the penitentiary, but every time he gets out he resumes his old trade.

Uncle Sam's officers were slow in locating him this time, but they finally succeeded. He spread the report that he thought he had, but some parties got word of a moonshine distillery on about Hudsonville, and they began to get on Bill's trail again.

The Quindiff, over in the edge of Hardinsburg, have been a terror to the moonshiners. It seems that one of the Quindiffs (Jeff J. Quindiff) acts as a sort of a detective among them. Last week, in order to keep peace against Jeff, they went one night to a house which they thought belonged to him, and put a lot of dynamite under it and blew it up. They thought Jeff was in there and they would get him. Jeff proved to be the property of the R. G. N. Condit, a local Presbyterian minister. G. N. is a cousin of Jeff's and he never let anything to do with making the moonshine. But Jeff didn't like them trying to keep the peace, and he was to meet them there, but his cousin Jeff, the detective—he is a game fellow.

Bill Taylor and his pal in the moonshine business were arrested over in the hollows about 3 o'clock in the morning. Jeff Condit got wind of an illicit distillery up there, and he went to take it. From what he could learn, it was situated over in the hollows somewhere, in a secluded spot and a section of country rarely traversed by any one. Condit went to Pompey Miller's and learned from him about the direction of the still.

In company with Len Miller, he got up about 2 a. m. and started on the hunt. They traveled over a very rough country for an hour or more and finally came upon a little bit down in the woods. They approached it very cautiously, for they knew that if Bill Taylor was in there making moonshine, and they didn't get away, they would find their way to go to the penitentiary. They were twenty yards, and Condit crawled up to the door. He could hear two or three voices, and he thought it best for him and his partner not to tackle them. So they left quietly and found their way to the penitentiary. They were twenty yards, and Condit crawled up to the door. He could hear two or three voices, and he thought it best for him and his partner not to tackle them. So they left quietly and found their way to the penitentiary.

At midnight they struck out for the distillery. They ran up on it about 3 o'clock, and Taylor and his partner were running her in full blast. Marshal Yates did not know exactly how to tackle the thing to make sure of his game. He saw a man come to the door once or twice and look round and then go back. Yates crept cautiously down to the door with a revolver in each hand. He told his men to surround the concern, and if the inmates tried to escape, to kill them (necessarily). Yates took his stand by the door and it wasn't long until this was opened again from the inside. Instantly the officer covered the man with his revolver and told him to throw up his hands. The other fellow then the inside broke on the back way and tried to escape, but they nabbed him. Yates had his man at the door foul, and so they surrounded.

This was the only moonshine distillery in that section, and most likely the only one running in the county. As the last evidence of it was destroyed, there may not be another started soon.

This fellow Taylor, such a male for making a moonshine distillery that he would do most anything to get one started. One one in which he operated in the past was a week in the penitentiary. He was a lawbreaker and he was a lawbreaker and he was a lawbreaker.

He then called it with wild and sweet on the last.

BRANDENBURG

Santa Claus paid both passengers a generous visit.

LOCATED AND CAPTURED.

Miss Emma Hally is visiting her sister, Mrs. John Rader.

Miss Agnes Melin has arrived from Louisville to spend Christmas.

Charlie Casperke has been quite sick but is now better at this writing.

Miss Kate Wilmer, of Midway, visited Miss Mary Liza Hayes last week.

Frank Webb and son, Leonard, and Miss Anna Brown spent the week in Louisville.

The Rev. Mr. Wagoner preached at the Baptist church last Sunday morning and night.

The Sunday School children of the Baptist church had a "treat" but no special program.

Mrs. M. A. Wilson, of Lebanon, Ky., has spent several weeks with her sister, Dr. D. C. Pusey.

There are no entertainments so far booked for the week but of course this will be done later.

Miss Lena Nevitt went to Louisville (from Dallas) with Miss Mamie Schene and Florence Smith.

Mr. Burton left Sunday night for Vine Grove, thence to the Teachers' State Association in Louisville.

Miss Peyton Smith, of Louisville, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Wm. Bewley. Her sister is a handsome, bright girl.

Dr. Henry Shacklett and wife, and Charles Shacklett with two young gentlemen friends, are at home for the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Theo. H. Ditt and little Virginia were our guests Christmas eve, with a number of other relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Nevitt have arrived safe and sound and we are all glad to have them back with their interesting family looking well and happy.

Our Mr. Editor, I am happy as the invisible "big sun-downer," Kris Kringle remembered me most beautifully. It isn't, we all know, the value of gifts, but the sweet spirit which presents them.

Dr. and Mrs. W. B. Pusey, of Louisville, D. L. Pusey, Chicago, R. D. Pusey, of Indianapolis, spent Sunday and Monday with Mr. C. Pusey, who has just come to be proud of these handsome successful sons.

Very solemn and impressive indeed was the midnight mass in the Catholic church in Louisville next Sunday. The Methodist churches will greet the New Year with congregations on their knees in prayer.

Miss Fannie Reese and Mr. Joe Mills were married Tuesday at Mr. Merino and had a family dinner at Mr. and Mrs. Reese's. Mr. and Mrs. B. Neafus and Mr. T. Simmon's family of this place were present.

Beauford Dudley's picture, taken in his last illness, is in last Sunday's Courier, was fine of the dear old man. He is broad minded and scholarly and is loved and revered by all of us who love the holy church and her ministers.

The Meade Messenger of last week, upon the request of Mr. Ernest V. Bishop, of this place, to Miss Beatie Elizabeth Brennan, of Evansville, Ind. Miss Brennan is the only daughter of Col. R. A. Brennan, and is said to be very pretty and attractive.

Mr. Jim Thompson died near Meadeville, in Meade county last week, after twenty-four hours illness. She was advanced in years and had lived an upright excellent life. She leaves two children, Albert Thompson and Mrs. G. Richardson. Her aged husband survives her. She was buried at the old graveyard at back Richardson's, Dr. Symphay to the family.

Special exercises and a "treat" for the Sunday School children formed a pleasant program at the M. E. church last Sunday morning. Miss Mabel Hardin sang a very pretty solo. Miss Daisy McIntire, Anna Bondurant, Lula Lawle and Mabel Hardin a quartette. The children sang and recited. Misses May Dee Pusey, Annie Bondurant, Mabel Hardin decorated the church beautifully.

Whether it is just good on the Goebel question (and in fact on all topics) I'll quote in full—also on Christmas is fine: "Will you make some one happy this Christmas? Let the Christmas spirit get into your heart and take possession of your soul and make some one happy. You can do it." A service legislature may yet put Wm. Goebel in to the Governor's chair, but it would be worth thousands of votes to the Democratic party if they would order him dumped into the sea of oblivion.

A announcement was made to the marriage of Mr. James Hayden Meese and Miss Lula Ochsner were received this week. They were married at the residence of Clinton O. Chandler, in Garrett, at 10 noon, Dec. 27th. I know nothing whatever of the fortunate gentleman who has won this, my pupil and little neighbor girl while in Garrett. Lala is a bright, cheerful, having graduated from the Cincinnati Conservatory of music, after which she taught successfully. Mr. Meese, I think, is a lawyer, of Holstonville, which is to be their future home. Hearty congratulations.

Webster pays a high tribute to the Sandy Hill girls. We endorse every word. Here's one more item from this same pen; put it in your pipe and smoke it until 1900. "Conquering Sidney of Paducah" was in 1898 was one of the strongest advocates of the 16 to 1 doctrine in the whole country and who prophesied the dire results that would follow should McKinley be elected, seeing that his prophesies were not only all false, but that the country is in a more prosperous condition than it has been for years before. Has the honesty to renounce silver and will vote for McKinley next year?"

This column is greatly indebted to Glendene for a very sweet, sincere notice. It never has for one moment felt any grudge against her, but she has been so turning information good. At any rate each correspondent of this excellent paper possesses his or her own individual merit. Each to this column is par excellence. Without an individuality each would become a nonentity. None of us would take an interest in each other without a most distinct individuality. It would be most unbecoming in any one of us to pick flaws or in any way criticize another column. Undesired, self defense and even then we would find admit that we had compromised our dignity and the good will of others whose good opinion we cherish. No one of us is infallible. We might dissent, but there is a ladylike or gentlemanly manner in which to do it. I have corresponded with this paper six years, nearly seven, and if ever I have wounded the feelings of a fellow correspondent, or if ever without an open malignant cause, repaid in an unkind manner, I cannot recall it. I feel that we are as one family, knit and bound by the common tie of success to an honorable high-minded gentleman as editor, and a corps of well versed, kind, well informed correspondents and a vast number of wide-awake intelligent readers. There are many many kind, good wishes for each and all, for 1900. May our lives grow brighter each day from performing kind deeds to love and serve. May we all as warm, alive, sincere, sympathetic strive to lose some precious soul to seek a higher plane of living. May our influence be all for good. May the dear old News go on to perfection, be the sincere heartfelt wish of a humble scribbler.

TOO MUCH RED BOOZE.

Daniel Mike and Andrew Burk Murder J. P. McCarver.

THE VICTIM 70 YEARS OLD.

Dan, Mike and Andrew Burk took the life of J. P. McCarver Christmas afternoon about four o'clock on the farm of Mr. Mike Tierney's which is situated on the Fordville road about four or five miles from this city.

Dan and Mike are the sons of Mr. Cornelius Burk and Andrew is a son of Mr. Jerry Burk.

The particulars are as follows as gathered by a News reporter.

Dan, Mike and Andrew Burk had been in this city Christmas day and left a little after the noon hour pretty well filled with holiday "booze."

When reaching a store which was conducted by said McCarver on Tierney's farm, they alighted from their horses and presumably went in to make a purchase. It is alleged the Burk boys became too boisterous while in McCarver's store and he immediately ordered them from the store. At this request they became offended and lustily began to shout.

HAPPILY MARRIED.

One of Breckenridge's Sweetest Women Weds One of Uncle Sam's Heroes.

GLADENSK, Ky., Dec. 26.—Last

Thursday evening at 8 o'clock Miss Lilla Frances Cooper and Mr. William A. McVie, of Woodburn, Ky., were quietly married in the presence of a few special friends. The wedding took place at Miss Cooper's home, near Rockville, the Rev. W. E. Rutledge officiating.

The bride is one of Breckenridge's noblest and most talented women. In the school-room, in the social circle, intellectually, or in whatever way true womanhood is considered, she is unequalled. With ready pen she won the first prize offered by News a year ago for the best Thanksgiving story.

The groom is of the U. S. Army and has charge of hospital work at Santiago. He is at home on a two months' furlough. At the end of that time he will return to Cuba. Your correspondent has been unable to learn where they will make their home nor has he been able to ascertain particulars of wedding as desired. He knows that their acquaintance began at Bowling Green when Miss Cooper attended school there and he knows that she has hundreds of friends who wish them long and happy lives.

John W. R. Pryor and Miss M. V. Ellis have resigned from the State Election Commission. Judge John A. Peyton has been named as Judge Peyton's successor. Thursday, Capt. A. H. Hays was elected.

THE TIME COMES

To every elderly woman when an important change takes place in life, this is called "The Change of Life." The end system undergoes a change. The old system is broken down, and a new system is built up. The old system is broken down, and a new system is built up. The old system is broken down, and a new system is built up.

COMMENTS

On the Progress of the War in South Africa.

THE LEADING PAPERS.

The war in South Africa was two weeks and on December 12. The British have achieved no decisive or even important victories, their principal success being the carrying of the Boer position at Elandsdorp on October 31, General Methuen's victorious at Belmont (November 22) and at Modder river (November 28). In the latter engagement the British casualties were so great (4000) that it can hardly be called a victory. On the other side the Boers have had to suffer with the constant siege of Ladysmith, Kimberley, and Mafeking, the capture of two regiments or parts of regiments which sortied from Ladysmith on October 10, the occupation of Colenso, the destruction of the armored train (November 16), General Buller's complete defeat at Stormberg, (October 3), followed by Methuen's defeat at Magersfontein, December 10 (11 British killed, 3000 Boers), and Buller's repulse (December 27), while endeavoring to cross the Tugela river; General Buller's large army suffered heavy losses of men and eleven guns.

General Buller's plan of campaign contemplated three movements against the Boers by General Buller from the north, a second by Methuen on the Kimberley side, and the relief of Ladysmith by General Buller himself. No feature of this plan is in progress of accomplishment.

General Buller's losses (1007 killed, wounded and missing) serve to accentuate the dependency caused in England by the successive defeats of the week. The London correspondents of the "New York Times" speaks of the "position of war, disappointment, and might almost as if that has swept over the country." The correspondent goes on to explain the feeling by the statement that the Boers realize that Buller's defeat was brought about by orders from the government. "The inept war office and the inept government," the correspondent says, "yielded to popular clamor for a new and ordered Buller to strike a blow at once that would retrieve the Boer position of the army and improve the spirits of the people." The correspondent of the "Sun" says that "gloom and grief overhauled England," and the "New York Times" correspondent in the same issue says that the "Sun" correspondent writes, there are evidences of determination to reckon grimly with those who have brought the darkest days of the war has known within the memory of living men."

The London press comments upon the situation in a despondent and chastened tone. None of the papers seeks to minimize the dangerous and trying nature of the Boer's position in the face of defeat. The hands of an antagonist that seemed to scatter at the first charge of the British troops. The Times says that Buller has not faced "so painful and dangerous a situation" since the day of the Boer invasion. The Star, the "New York Times," and the Globe all emphasize upon the danger of the Boer's predicament. All the papers urge the immediate necessity of a decisive victory out of defeat by sending reinforcements and strengthening the lines around the Boers. The "guilt of the government" is a frequently used phrase in the fixing of responsibility, and the opinion of all, should be left to the Boers. A strong feature of the editorial opinion is the common-sense way in which the Boers are viewed in France and the indifference of German comment. The "New York Times" says that "the German people are indolent over the Boer war," and the "New York Times" says that "the German people are indolent over the Boer war," and the "New York Times" says that "the German people are indolent over the Boer war."

CANCER IS DEADLY!

Results Fatally in Nine Cases Out of Ten—A Cure Found at Last.

This fearful disease often first appears as a mere scratch, a pimple, or lump in the breast, too small to attract any notice, until, in many cases, the deadly disease is fully developed. Cancer can not be cured by a surgical operation, because the disease is a virulent poison in the blood, circulating throughout the system, and although the sore or ulcer—known as the Cancer—may be cut away, the poison remains in the blood, and promptly breaks out afresh, with renewed violence. The wonderful success of S. S. S. in curing obstinate deep-seated blood diseases which were considered incurable, induced a few despairing sufferers to try it for Cancer, after exhausting the skill of the physicians without a cure. Much to their delight S. S. S. proved equal to the disease and promptly effected a cure. The glad news spread rapidly, and it was soon demonstrated beyond doubt, that a cure had at last been found for deadly Cancer. Evidence has accumulated which is incontrovertible, of which the following is a specimen:

"Cancer is hereditary in our family, my father, a sister and an aunt having died from the dreadful disease. My feelings may be imagined when the horrible disease made its appearance on my side. It was a malignant Cancer, eating inwardly in such a way as to cause great alarm. The disease seemed beyond the skill of the doctors, for their treatment did no good whatever, the Cancer growing worse all the while. Numerous remedies were used for it, but the cancer grew steadily worse, until it seemed that I was doomed to follow the others of the family, for I knew how deadly Cancer is, especially when it is hereditary. I was advised to try Swift's Specific (S. S. S.), which, from the first day, forced out the poison. I continued its use until I had taken eighteen bottles, when I was cured sound and well, and have had no symptoms of the disease, although thirty years have passed since. S. S. S. is the only cure for Cancer.—Miss S. M. Dor, Winton, N. C."

"Our book on Cancer, containing other testimonials and valuable information, will be sent free to any address by the Swift Specific Company, Atlanta, Georgia."

The circulation of the Ladies' Home Journal for 1899 reached the enormous aggregate of 9,814,931 in the average of 84,700 copies for each of the twelve issues of the year. It has been shown by a comprehensive postal canvass that each issue is read by eight persons; consequently, these figures reveal the astonishing fact that each issue is read by one person in every eight or ten in the United States who can read and write English.

The Craving For Stimulants. The blood normally contains stimulants, and these stimulants exercise a favoring influence on function and continue to aid may even be necessary factor in the production of the feeling of well being explains the wide-spread liking for stimulants. This liking, amounting often to a craving, is the expression of a great physiological principle. When health is perfect, when the blood is well provided with its proper stimulants and not overcharged with depressants, there is no craving for extraneous stimulants, such as alcohol, tea or coffee, but when the blood is defective in the one or overcharged with the other, it is felt that desire for the glass of wine or the cup of tea.

In order to obviate this desire the body should be kept at the highest level of health. The more perfect the health the more perfect will be the composition of the blood in respect to both physical stimulants and depressants. A blood properly constituted in these and other respects will exercise a tonic stimulant action on the nervous system and induce a condition of mild physiological intoxication, which expresses itself in a feeling of well being and happiness—a condition that cannot be bettered.—Fletcher.

The Result of Too Much Pathos. "One day," says Jean Francois Lafontaine, "Dante was arguing a point that on the stage it is a mistake to insist too strongly on any one form of sentiment, whatever it may be." He said he. "I recall a little incident which may serve to illustrate my meaning: A woman dressed in black sat down at an omnibus in which I happened to be. She was in deep mourning, and her countenance was so worn, so contracted, so furrowed with grief, that her neighbor could not refrain from asking what terrible sorrow it could be that had thus left its marks upon her."

"Whereupon the woman, amid the sympathetic attention of all the little world in the omnibus, including the conductor, who had been but a few minutes ago as to hide his tears, told how she had lost first one child and within a very few days another. Every one pitied her greatly, but when she proceeded with many tears to tell of the death of a third child her hearers were somewhat less sympathetic. Finally, when she launched into a long account of the loss of a fourth—devoured by a crocodile on the banks of the Nile—she burst out laughing."—New Lippincott.

Results Fatally in Nine Cases Out of Ten—A Cure Found at Last.

This fearful disease often first appears as a mere scratch, a pimple, or lump in the breast, too small to attract any notice, until, in many cases, the deadly disease is fully developed. Cancer can not be cured by a surgical operation, because the disease is a virulent poison in the blood, circulating throughout the system, and although the sore or ulcer—known as the Cancer—may be cut away, the poison remains in the blood, and promptly breaks out afresh, with renewed violence. The wonderful success of S. S. S. in curing obstinate deep-seated blood diseases which were considered incurable, induced a few despairing sufferers to try it for Cancer, after exhausting the skill of the physicians without a cure. Much to their delight S. S. S. proved equal to the disease and promptly effected a cure. The glad news spread rapidly, and it was soon demonstrated beyond doubt, that a cure had at last been found for deadly Cancer. Evidence has accumulated which is incontrovertible, of which the following is a specimen:

"Cancer is hereditary in our family, my father, a sister and an aunt having died from the dreadful disease. My feelings may be imagined when the horrible disease made its appearance on my side. It was a malignant Cancer, eating inwardly in such a way as to cause great alarm. The disease seemed beyond the skill of the doctors, for their treatment did no good whatever, the Cancer growing worse all the while. Numerous remedies were used for it, but the cancer grew steadily worse, until it seemed that I was doomed to follow the others of the family, for I knew how deadly Cancer is, especially when it is hereditary. I was advised to try Swift's Specific (S. S. S.), which, from the first day, forced out the poison. I continued its use until I had taken eighteen bottles, when I was cured sound and well, and have had no symptoms of the disease, although thirty years have passed since. S. S. S. is the only cure for Cancer.—Miss S. M. Dor, Winton, N. C."

"Our book on Cancer, containing other testimonials and valuable information, will be sent free to any address by the Swift Specific Company, Atlanta, Georgia."

The circulation of the Ladies' Home Journal for 1899 reached the enormous aggregate of 9,814,931 in the average of 84,700 copies for each of the twelve issues of the year. It has been shown by a comprehensive postal canvass that each issue is read by eight persons; consequently, these figures reveal the astonishing fact that each issue is read by one person in every eight or ten in the United States who can read and write English.

The Craving For Stimulants. The blood normally contains stimulants, and these stimulants exercise a favoring influence on function and continue to aid may even be necessary factor in the production of the feeling of well being explains the wide-spread liking for stimulants. This liking, amounting often to a craving, is the expression of a great physiological principle. When health is perfect, when the blood is well provided with its proper stimulants and not overcharged with depressants, there is no craving for extraneous stimulants, such as alcohol, tea or coffee, but when the blood is defective in the one or overcharged with the other, it is felt that desire for the glass of wine or the cup of tea.

In order to obviate this desire the body should be kept at the highest level of health. The more perfect the health the more perfect will be the composition of the blood in respect to both physical stimulants and depressants. A blood properly constituted in these and other respects will exercise a tonic stimulant action on the nervous system and induce a condition of mild physiological intoxication, which expresses itself in a feeling of well being and happiness—a condition that cannot be bettered.—Fletcher.

The Result of Too Much Pathos. "One day," says Jean Francois Lafontaine, "Dante was arguing a point that on the stage it is a mistake to insist too strongly on any one form of sentiment, whatever it may be." He said he. "I recall a little incident which may serve to illustrate my meaning: A woman dressed in black sat down at an omnibus in which I happened to be. She was in deep mourning, and her countenance was so worn, so contracted, so furrowed with grief, that her neighbor could not refrain from asking what terrible sorrow it could be that had thus left its marks upon her."

"Whereupon the woman, amid the sympathetic attention of all the little world in the omnibus, including the conductor, who had been but a few minutes ago as to hide his tears, told how she had lost first one child and within a very few days another. Every one pitied her greatly, but when she proceeded with many tears to tell of the death of a third child her hearers were somewhat less sympathetic. Finally, when she launched into a long account of the loss of a fourth—devoured by a crocodile on the banks of the Nile—she burst out laughing."—New Lippincott.

Why He Is a Walter. W. E. B. Du Bois, in his book, "The Philadelphia Negro," devotes much space to authentic instances, proving that in the words of the author, "the road to success is to have a white face." Professor Du Bois cites many individual cases in support of his somewhat bitter deduction, one of the most striking being the experience of a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania.

A NEW YEAR'S GREETING TO OUR READERS.

To all our readers, old and young, rich and poor, paid up and otherwise, we extend the season's greeting of a happy New Year to you and yours.

Christmas with its griefs and its gifts, with its pleasure and its disappointments, has come and gone, and we have now to face the stern reality of a new year and a new century.

To our correspondents we would say a word of thanks. It is due to you that we receive the notes of encouragement and appreciation from our readers that you see printed in our columns from time to time and it is due to your faithfulness and promptness that we get the news from this county and adjoining ones while it is fresh. May this year keep you ever vigilant in this good work.

For our advertisers we would desire that in the coming year they reap the reward laid up for the man who advertises freely. May his granary be overflowing, his old stock gone and replenished with new, his offers full and his heart happy! We can wish him no better luck than that his wares may be brought weekly before the readers of the News and so disposed of.

To our subscribers, far and near, from Maine to Manila we wish a happy New Year. That this year of 1907 may be the best and brightest in your life is the sincere wish of the editor of this paper.

To the general public we would say that our aim in the forth-coming year will be to make our paper newer and better and more acceptable than ever before and we earnestly solicit your patronage. If you are not a subscriber we shall be glad to place your name upon our list at your earliest convenience.

And let us add that for you whose eye may chance to see these words our wish is that you "may live long and prosper."

GLENDENE.

Miss Moore was here Sunday.

Everybody came home for Xmas.

Business like Saturday notwithstanding the day.

Jersey Blue is visiting his sisters in Owensboro this week.

Miss Mollie Lyon, of Irvington, is visiting Miss Nellie Moorman.

Miss Irene Baird is visiting friends here a day or two this week.

Miss Mela Maxwell is spending the week with relatives at Union Star.

Glendene has but few faults; one is it uses too much liquor Xmas time.

Miss Nannie Green has accepted a temporary position in the post office.

Miss Nannie Hunter's school has closed at Beswille, and she is welcomed home again.

Mr. Joe Mercer leaves this week for a protracted visit to McKenra, Litchfield, and other places.

Misses Ella and Arrie Robertson will attend the State Teachers' Association in Louisville this week.

Overton Blanford and Pierce Hardaway, both of Beswille, are visiting in this neighborhood this week.

Miss Fannie Groves has returned to Fordville this week. She has many friends here, all regretting to see her leave.

Dr. Green and his nephew, one of Mr. Charles Robertson's sons, are visiting the Dr. home in Louisville this week.

Sarah Owen, colored, and two of her friends, whose names escaped me, are visiting in Brandenburg during the holidays.

Bro. Rutledge filled his Glendene appointment last night as usual. He gave a full house, one of his best sermons.

Miss Jessie Cary and brother and their guests, a Mr. Wialen and his sister, visited their friends, the Misses Chambliss, Sunday.

Luther Smith, engaged in timber buying in eastern Kentucky, is visiting at Dr. Dempster's. Mr. Smith is well known here and a host of friends welcome his coming.

The first party of the holiday season will be given tonight (Monday) at D. C. Moorman's, where everybody always has "the best time" imaginable.

Nathan Willie Froba, who works in the warehouse, fell upon a slick step after doing some sprinkling Saturday. Three teeth were badly loosened and a badly bruised leg resulted.

Santa Claus was unusually liberal this time. Friends were thankful for one another; gift giving was extensive and everybody chose happily the old year with numerous good resolves for the new. May we persevere in keeping them!

An accident, resulting from careless handling of a giant firebrecker Saturday, has much of the flesh from one of Ed Nestor's fore fingers. A laceration was not so serious as was thought at first. His face also received a scar. The accident caused a postponement of his holiday visit to Owensboro.

Bob Moorman, Glen Moorman and Walter Moorman will spend a few days with our service out at Mook this week. It's well that the game law forbids hunting at the close of the year, for there is no birds to hunt out there after they get through scouring the woods, and devastating fields of corn.

Last Wednesday Dolph Clark finished delivering 7,000 lbs. of fine tobacco, averaging him within a few cents of $7 per hundred. Same day a bran new baby boy came to make his home at Mr. Clark's.

Not even Louis Asher is having as big a Xmas as our friend Clark, and to have a better time than Mr. Asher has is known to but few men in this world.

School resumes Jan. 2nd and runs till the first teachers' examination. Careless work will be done toward preparing for certificates. None but working students wanted, nor would any other sort be retained. Don't want a big class of teachers, but such a number that each member recite every day and that individual recitation may be given in all cases requiring it.

Hon. J. P. Hawell, Editor Baltimore and Bro. Rutledge, were all in town Friday, and with good reason. Bro. Rutledge with a visit. If we were not he would waste basket this I'd tell that our editor made an elegant address to the school and its visitors. Hereafter when he is in the picnic, sales, associations, institutions, etc., the people should place him on the rostrum. His ability there is equal to his capacity at the table, and all Breckencranks can testify to the latter.

Sylvia Howard closed his school most successfully with a well patronized entertainment Friday night. In his unique tableau power Harry Lake's eldest son burned his hand considerably. Barren this accident the occasion was an enjoyable one, the program was good, and their district library is now next to largest in the county. Mr. Howard, assisted by his patrons and his faithful pupils, has done a great work, and his place will not be easily filled when he quits teaching. With the New Year, goes to Lexington by appointment, where he will take a course in mechanical engineering.

Chairman Whitworth Resigns.

HARDINBURG, Ky., Dec. 23rd, 1899.—To the Democratic Committee:—I hereby resign the Chairmanship of the Democratic Committee of Breckencracks county, resignation to take effect from this date. Judge N. McC. Mercer is made acting Chairman and all business for committee will be done through him until the committee elects a regular officer.—I am, Sir, your obedient servant, Chairman Whitworth.

Dr. McMillen Acquired.

HARDINBURG, Ky., Dec. 23rd, (Special).—The bastardy warrants sworn out here last week by Miss Laura Galloway, of McDaniel, against Dr. McMillen of the same place, have been taken up by the defendant and acquitted after all of the evidence had been heard by the jury.

A Fine Girl.

Wednesday morning December 27th, happy expressions were noticeable in Mr. L. T. Baid's countenance and many were unable to solve the change, until it developed that a fine young lady had arrived at his house. The News extends congratulations.

A Beautiful System.

The Memphis Scimitar tells of a recent bride whose husband noticed that she was keeping an itemized account of the household expenses. In looking it over one day he noticed at the bottom of each page or two the letters "D. K. W." This somewhat puzzled him. He finally found it very difficult to keep from thinking about what these letters could possibly mean. It occurred to him that possibly his wife was saving out some money to buy something for him. But then he knew that his initials were not "D. K. W." and this did not prove a satisfactory solution to the matter.

So one day when his wife was in a real good humor he took her in his arms and asked what she meant by "D. K. W. 50 cents." "D. K. W. 51" and the like.

She replied: "D. K. W. stand for 'don't know what.' Whenever I want to balance my account at the end of each page and found I had spent money for which I could not account, I just put in a sufficient amount, with the item 'D. K. W.' to make it balance just exactly."

Fast Driving in Russia.

In the larger cities of Russia there is a limit to the speed which a horse may be driven through the public streets. The typical harness horse is the Orloff, a breed founded by Count Orloff-Chernoukhin, being a cross between the Arabian stallion Basmata and imported mares, principally English.

An average roadster is 10 hands high and weighs 1,100 pounds, with heavy make, a bushy tail that reaches nearly to the ground and "iron" legs. It shows great muscular development. The favorite color is gray. Such an animal is driven through the principal streets of St. Petersburg at a furious pace, that portion near the center and beside the surface car tracks being reserved for fast driving.

During the winter months teams of two and three abreast are driven to sleighs at a three minute gait. There is racing all winter, the courses being flooded at night to provide three inches of solid ice. American pneumatic tires, harness, boots, galloping appliances, etc., are in general use.

Lord Lansdowne Visits Turner.

No one was admitted to Turner's house in Queens Anne street unless specially invited. There was a sort of list, the iron grille in the center of the front door, through which the housekeeper used to look and see who was there. As an example of the rarity of visitors the late Lord Lansdowne, who was a great lover of art and a friend of Turner's, told me that after receiving no answers to his letters he resolved to break the iron in his den. He thereupon went and knocked at the door when a shock head appeared at the iron grille, and its owner called out, "Cat's meat, I suppose."

"Yes, cat's meat," answered his lordship and squeaked himself in—"Milk!"

The Aged Minister.

If his work be in a city church, it is a grave question whether any minister can now discharge it with efficiency who is much above 50 years of age. The multitude of details in a city parish, the excitement of the life, the severe demands upon the minister and the heavy burden of responsibility call for a man in the prime of life, with an alert intellect and an unflinching courage.—I am, Sir, your obedient servant, Chairman Whitworth.

Took Their Places.

Here is a story which Baron Doves, the celebrated Irish judge, once told in that exaggerated "brogue" which he loved to employ:

"I was down in Cork holding assizes. On the first day, when the jury came in, the officer of the court said, 'Gentlemen as the jury, you'll take yer accustomed places, if ye please.' And may I tell you, gentlemen, that the baron, 'if they didn't all walk into the dock.'"

As Unknown Hero.

La Gaceta, published in Guadalajara, prints in a prominent place the following:

A MAN.
Will the gentleman who embraced my wife at the altar, please send me his photograph, my "Album of Memories" He will greatly oblige me.

THE WAS WATCHED.
Prof. Pate Presented With a Hand-some Time Piece by Patroness.
Friday afternoon, Dec. 23, was an interesting concert at the Glendene. A number of patrons and friends were in attendance when Dr. Pate presented Mr. Joel H. Pike with a beautiful gold watch in token of their esteem and in appreciation of his successful efforts in inspiring his pupils to their best efforts in the school-room. This present came as a complete surprise to Mr. Pike who, however, rose to the occasion in his usual happy manner. After his remarks he called on Rev. W. E. Badgley, who addressed the people in an interesting and instructive talk. There were speeches made by other friends of the school and the afternoon was one of the most pleasant ever spent at Glendene.
Mr. Pike's remarks were as follows:
My Father—A poet said, "I had a meaning friend, I gave him gifts and he gave me, I had an open enemy, I gave him gifts and I won him." This afternoon each of you might aid, "I had a friend, I gave him a gift and he found no words to express himself." Indeed, when the heart is fullest, when feeling is greatest, when our very being clamors for expression that we may speak our souls—it is then that we realize what words—things words are; weak when we would have them stronger.
I think to vain for appropriate utterance. In fact your kindness and your expression of esteem quite overpower me until I stand here unable to speak at this golden opportunity with this golden timepiece.
Our own Emerson says "He is a good man, who can receive a gift well." If this be the standard of measurement for goodness, I fear I do not measure knee-high to the smallest child here.
These things mean so much to me, as it were, until we do not know whether or not we receive well.
I do value this valuable gift, but I value you, my good friends, immensely more.
Here I see a face beautiful, bright, open, frank, honest looking, but it is not half so much to me as the bright, intelligent, sympathetic, honest faces of my friends.
Here I see hands, constant hands, faithfully pointing the hour, telling me to rise, to work, to dine, to rest, to play, to sleep, but these hands are far less to me than the willing, helpful hands of friendship, which I see about me on every side.
The ticking of this watch—music in its golden shell—is far less to me than the beating of your own kind hearts, infinitely less than the heart throbs of these children whom I love and humbly to glory for, gladly told for, day after day.
But I can not make a speech; I cannot open my feelings, what I feel would utter will remain forever unuttered. In the coming months I'll try to show my appreciation by my increased effort to do well the work you have entrusted to me.
In conclusion, may your years be as your kind deeds—many. May your happiness be as great as that which you bestow. May you, too, sometime be over- come by the kindness of your friends till you are embarrassed, lost to words, paralyze of tongue and I want you to know how I feel, I can't tell you.
If such a thing is possible, may you receive the good things of this life beyond your dreams, even as I know I receive them beyond mine. I thank you.

Not an Applicant.
HARDINBURG, Ky., Dec. 25th 1900.—Editor of BRECKENRIDGE NEWS:—An article appeared in a recent issue of your paper announcing that Hon. R. N. Miller had been offered a place of profit and honor, by the present Republican administration at Frankfort, and that Hon. J. P. Halloway, Jr., Mr. Allen R. Kinchloe and myself, would be applicants for the county Attorneyship.
It gives me pleasure to learn of Mr. Miller's prospective appointment and I congratulate him on his good fortune.
However the statement that I will attempt to succeed him, in the event he accepts the offered place, is wholly unauthorized by me.
I am not an applicant for and will not be.
I am entirely satisfied with my place in the Internal Revenue service under Collector Frank.
Respectfully,
James R. Ezridge.
Presiding.
There will be services Sunday morning at 11 o'clock at the Baptist church and services in the afternoon at 3 o'clock for men. Regular services at night. All are especially invited to come.

In a Critical Condition.
The friends of Mrs. F. O. Ferry, of Stephensport, regret to learn of her serious illness. She is at the Norton Infirmary, at Louisville, where she had a serious operation performed on Sunday, from which she has not rallied, and her condition is critical.
"One Minute Cough Cure is the best remedy I ever used for coughs and colds. It is unequalled for whooping cough." "Children all like it," writes H. N. Williams, Georgetown, Ind. Never fails. It is the only harmless remedy that gives immediate results. Cures coughs, colds, whooping cough, pneumonia, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles. Its early use prevents consumption.—A. R. Fisher.

Ladies Reading Club.
The Ladies' Reading Club will meet at the home of Miss Kate Higley Thursday afternoon.

HEAVENLY.
But He Yeaught the Fuse of a Cannon Cracker Had Expired.
Morris Jolly, of Irvington, Ky., nineteen years old, who is visiting the family of Mr. E. R. Pote, is a victim of one of those giant firecrackers that have been a bane to nervous people, a menace to plate glass windows and a source of enormity joy to the small boys the last few days. About 10:30 o'clock last night, with a crowd of young people, he was burning fireworks and money in front of Mr. Roy Gilbert's residence. Young Jolly had a regular care-splitting cracker for the first effort. The thing cracked too slowly for his gratification and he took the instrument of extreme torture and ecstatic joy in his hand to see if the fuse had blown out. It hadn't and there was an explosion. When young Jolly recovered from his surprise he discovered that a section of his thumb was missing, two finger nails hung a thread and his hand had a general battered appearance.
Dr. McCormick was called in and had to take a number of stitches before he could patch the thumb into some sort of semblance of its original shape, but the finger nails were gone beyond redemption, except that he may grow a new pair. He will be laid up several days until repairs are completed.—Owensboro Messenger.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years it was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by J. C. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They are one hundred dollars for each bottle. It fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c.

A Social Event.
A most pleasant social event was given at the Commercial hotel in this place last Saturday night by Mrs. Ford and her two daughters. The affair was purely a social one, and was given in honor of those who had called upon the Misses Ford since their arrival here a few weeks since. The dining room was handsomely decorated with flowers, and at ten o'clock lunch was served. Those present were Rev. F. M. Petty and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Shellen, Mr. W. H. Halloway and his daughter, Miss Eva, Misses Alice and Maggie Baker, Miss Annie Gardner, Misses Lizzie and Katie Eskridge, Mr. Jess Eskridge, Messrs. Frank, Jones and Oland Mercer, Miss Ella Hook, W. B. Ball, John Halloway, V. B. Baugh, Thomas Withers, W. K. Barnes and wife, Herbert Beard, Anna Beard, Horace Scott, Jr., Ed Guthrie, Lewis Kinchloe, Mr. Studebaker, Kokono, Ind., and J. H. Work, McKinley Texas.

Children Made Happy.
One notable fact concerning the closing of the schools in this Magisterial district is that children who have never been visited by Santa Claus were made happy this year by his visitation.

A Typhoid Victim.
Mrs. Tom McGavock, nee Miss Emma Newton, died at her home near this place last week of typhoid fever. She leaves a husband and several children all whom but two are ill with the same disease.

Did a Good Business.
The merchants of this town and all over the county report the largest holiday trade ever before known.
Mayor John A. Barry and wife entertained a number of their young friends Thursday evening in honor of their guests, Misses Beulah, of Big Bend; Mand Rice, of Greenville, and Daisy Rice, of Hopkinton.
